

Israa Adel El Hussein

Dr. Israa Adel El Hussein is an assistant professor at the Economics Department, School of Economics and Political Science, Cairo University. Dr. El Hussein is actively involved in research about public economics and public finance with an emphasis on issues of budgeting and budgetary institutions, political economy, institutional economics, public financial management, and economics of public expenditure.

Dr. El Hussein got her Ph.D. and Master degrees in Economics from the School of Economics and Political Science, Cairo University, in 2014 and 2009, respectively. She got a fellowship from the Institute of Law and Economics, Hamburg, Germany in 2012.

Dr. El Hussein has been working as a budget, PFM and fiscal decentralization junior expert for different international institutions including the EU and the USAID, in several projects in Egypt.

Dr. El Hussein has publications on education finance, budgetary institutions, public expenditure allocations, and fiscal policy in Egypt.